

Midterm Exam - Written: Listening

Speak Now 4. Midterm Exam.

Listening 1.

A: Hey, Sherri! How's everything with you?

B: Well, Carlos, I faced a challenge a few months back and lost my job.

A: Oh, no. That's terrible!

B: Actually, I wasn't very happy there anyway. I liked the work, but my boss was just awful. He was conceited and sarcastic. He was always so rude to me, too.

A: I hate when people are like that.

B: But recently I had a great opportunity. I was getting a bite to eat and looking at the job ads online when an old friend of mine walked up. I think you might have met him before. His name is Leo....

A: Oh, sure. I know Leo. We used to hang out together a lot.

B: Well, he introduced me to a former employer of his who owns a graphic design company. I met her last week, and we really hit it off. She offered me a job in her company!

A: That's great. I hope she's a better boss than the last one!

B: Oh, she is. She's great. She's really funny and gregarious. I'm really excited to work with her.

Listening 2.

A: Hey, Thomas. What are you doing?

B: Oh, hi, Sarah. I'm planning my week.

A: What do you mean by that?

B: Well, I'm always late and rushing to finish things at the last minute.

A: Yeah, I hear you.

B: So, I decided to get organized. I take some time every Sunday afternoon and plan out everything I need to do during the week.

A: I'm not really sure what you mean by 'everything.' You mean your projects?

B: I really mean everything. I make a schedule of all the work I need to finish. I try to be as detail-oriented as possible. I even plan all my meals for the week.

A: Your meals? Really?

B: Yeah. I decided to stop eating junk food. I want to eat more nutritious food. So I plan ahead. It really helps when you don't just grab something at the last minute.

A: Yeah. I can understand that.

B: There are all kinds of great smartphone apps that can help you get organized and stick with it.

A: Thanks for telling me all this. Now I feel really motivated to get my life organized, too.

Speak Now 4. Midterm Exam – Integrated Speaking Assessment Question 4: Conversation

- A: Jamie, can I ask you some questions?
B: Sure, Carla. What about?
A: Well, I'm doing research for one of my classes. I'm asking people about how they use the internet for a report I am writing.
B: Oh, cool. What can I tell you?
A: Well, do you use the Internet every day?
B: Yes. I guess I use the Internet for a couple of hours almost every day.
A: And what do you use the Internet for?
B: Well... I have a blog that I update almost every day, and I visit a few social networking sites. Sometimes, when I'm in the mood, I check out some video sharing sites, too. I guess that's about it.
A: Cool. And...uh...why do you participate in social networking sites?
B: Well, it's a great way to keep up with your friends. I feel really connected, even when I can't actually see them very often.
A: Yeah, I guess that makes sense. Thanks, Jamie.

Speak Now 4. Midterm Exam – Integrated Speaking Assessment Question 5: Lecture

Everyone knows that our environment is in trouble. An increase in greenhouse gases is causing global warming. Our rivers, lakes, and oceans are all suffering. We all know we need to need to do something about it. But many people try to ignore the problem. They procrastinate about making changes in their lives. They don't take the time to make a plan and stick to it. However, going green isn't as difficult as you might think. There are some simple things that all of us can do to help save our planet. The first thing any of us can do is to reduce the amount of waste we produce. Buy fresh food rather than packaged food. Buying locally sourced food is another way to help. Refuse plastic bags at the supermarket; take your own bags. You can also reduce your carbon footprint by riding a bicycle or taking public transportation instead of driving a car everywhere you go. When you need to buy new electronic goods, buy energy-efficient ones. Everyone can do something, and it only takes a little effort to go green.
